Moving Forward Together with our Supporters and Friends

Thank You

For 99 years the Police Athletic League has stayed true to its mission of helping New York City's boys and girls become productive citizens by providing them with safe, nurturing and supportive places to go. The neighborhoods where PAL serves may have changed across the decades but the commitment and the mission stay the same. We also continue to build partnerships with government agencies and private entities to resolve the most pressing issues of the time.

Through an array of services – from afterschool programs to sport leagues – PAL youth play and learn while also building self-confidence, life skills and civic engagement. We respect the personal courage that it takes for many children, growing up in neglected neighborhoods, to expand their worlds beyond the nearest street corners. We support our youth to move Forward Together with opportunities such as hands-on STEM learning, college preparation, sports clinics and internships. When our PAL alumni share their experiences, they credit PAL for making a real difference in their youth.

The PAL family is grateful to the New York City Police Department for its valuable partnership and assistance with serving 35,000 youth each year. Under the leadership of Police Commissioner Raymond W. Kelly, this partnership has grown even stronger during the 12 years he has served with distinction as PAL's Honorary President. We extend our heartfelt thanks to Commissioner Kelly for his proactive support of PAL's mission to give kids safe places to go, learn and play.

We offer our deepest gratitude to our supporters, friends, colleagues on the Board of Directors, PAL's dedicated employees and volunteers. Thank you on behalf of the 35,000 youth served by PAL each year and the millions of young men and women served over the past 99 years. We will keep moving Forward Together.

99 Years

After nearly a century of service, PAL's unique mission to positively influence youth and prevent crime in underserved neighborhoods is still going strong. PAL along with partners and concerned citizens like you continued its tradition of responding to pressing needs affecting NYC's most at-risk children.

The results are clear. Together we have helped to improve the outcomes for NYC children - from promoting safety to closing education gaps that exist for young people growing up in PAL communities. Across five boroughs, in 32 of 59 New York City community districts, there is a PAL - the best friend a kid can have!

THANK YOU!

PAL is the best friend a kid can have because of the many friends and supporters who make this citywide impact possible.

PAL continues to march on Forward Together - discover how PAL and its partners impacted the lives of youth citywide thanks to your support.

Safety & Crime Prevention

	ISSUE	SOLUTION	IMPACT
	A 30% spike in major crimes in the past five years at New York City Housing Authority (NYCHA) developments made it unsafe for kids to play outdoors.	PAL spearheaded discussions with NYCHA to help create safe spaces for children.	PAL added 10 PAL PLAYSTREETS, providing safe and supervised outdoor recreational activities.
	Street crews, neighborhood-based crime-prone youth groups, are behind 30% of city shootings.	PAL worked with the NYPD to identify the most critical neighborhoods to set up Teen Impact Centers as "safe havens" for teenagers.	Teens from 14 of NYC's at-risk communities for juvenile crime had a safe place to go and engage in constructive activities with positive role models.
	31% of young people involved in the criminal justice system are re-arrested within one year of their release.	Youth Link, an alternative-to incarceration program for Family Court-involved youth, is offered in three boroughs in cooperation with the NYC Department of Probation.	88% of Youth Link graduates remain conviction-free three years after Youth Link graduation.

Did You Know? 2013 was PAL's 99th season of running PAL PLAYSTREETS, the original program that began the Police Athletic League.

PAL Programs

Education

	ISSUE	SOLUTION	IMPACT
	By age two, affluent children learn 30% more words than children from low-income homes.	With the support of the NYC Administration for Children Services, PAL launched the Bridging the Achievement Gap in Literacy Program at six Early Childhood Centers.	PAL kids read 7,500 books with their families.
	Students lose two months of literacy skills in the summer.	PAL partnered with local libraries and literacy organizations to help prevent "summer learning loss" – offering "academic workouts" during Summer Day Camp at 19 locations.	56% of PAL campers improved or maintained their learning engagement.
	Nearly 80% of future careers will require some STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) skills.	Together with the NYC Department of Youth and Community Development and NYS Department of Education, PAL made science come alive at 23 Afterschool Centers.	75% of afterschool youth are eager to learn more about STEM careers.

Did You Know? PAL added seven new afterschool centers in 2013.

PAL Programs

Sports & Fitness

	ISSUE	SOLUTION	IMPACT
	Few NYC schools meet state Physical Education mandates of at least 120 minutes per week of physical activity.	Together with the Parent Association, PAL expanded a lunchtime physical education activity program to all students at PS/IS 180 in Harlem.	Over 500 students exceeded the state standard for physical education.
	Participation in sports leads to improved academics, health and confidence in youth.	For the 99th year in a row, PAL blanketed the city with sports programs offered in conjunction with government and community organizations.	PAL facilitated 700 sports teams in 2013, including a new league in Brooklyn for public schools that lacked sports funding.
	90% of people in high crime neighborhoods don't trust the NYPD and do not feel comfortable seeking help from a police officer.	NYC youth and NYPD Officers mutually learn to respect each other while taking part in Cops & Kids Sports Leagues.	600 young people broke down barriers that exist between teens and police by participating in a Cops & Kids League.

Did You Know? 500 girls throughout the city took part in PAL's GirlSports Day in 2013.

PAL Programs

College Readiness & Workforce Development

	ISSUE	SOLUTION	IMPACT
	Less than 15% of black and Hispanic students in NYC public schools are considered college ready when they graduate high school.	The In-School Training and Employment Program (In-STEP) is a leadership development program offered in conjunction with schools and colleges.	100% of In-STEP seniors graduated high school with job skills, leadership skills and work experience. 92% are attending college.
	Teens that participate in summer jobs have smoother transition to the labor market and higher weekly and yearly earnings for up to 15 years after graduating.	PAL provides job training and placements to low-income youth in public and private worksites through the Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP).	93% of SYEP participants gained valuable work experience, despite barriers to employment.
	Less than one-third of people released from prison are working and contributing to the economy.	Together with corporate partners and the NYC Department of Corrections, PAL offers RISE, a job-skills training and placement program for youth ex-offenders.	77% of RISE participants are successfully placed in internships, externships and jobs.

Did You Know? PAL helped 1,100 young people get paid summer jobs in 2013.
